

WORLD IMPACT

A Global Hub

Hello reader! a pleasure to have you back again. Recently, the World Sleep Society announced the 12th annual World Sleep Day. March 15th, 2019. I know what you're thinking, but no, you don't get to sleep in all day. This event brings together researchers, health professionals and patients to remind us of the importance and impact of healthy sleep.

Talking about world impact, an integral part of the vision of SleepdB is to serve as a hub for knowledge translation and exchange between researchers and clinicians. The expected results are the advancement of clinically relevant research and implementation of cutting-edge assessments and treatments for breathing disorders.

SleepdB is conveniently and strategically located in one of North America's leading rehabilitation centers, Toronto Rehabilitation Institute (University Center).

Very important to our world domination plan: an army of scientists. Okay scratch that, back to reality. To achieve global impact, SleepdB is actively working with student researchers, research assistants and clinicians hailing from across the world: Canada, USA, Brazil, Italy, Serbia, Nigeria, South Africa, Iran, Bangladesh, India, China & more. Quite awesome if you ask me.

To be a part of the impact we are making, see our "Contact" page. Finally, a hearty congratulation to our newest Sleep Master, Grant Gruenspan, who successfully defended his Master's thesis recently! (see "News" section for more details)
