

MINUTE MADNESS

TRI Research Day 2019

Hello reader! It is week no. 4! Hmm..I smell summer. Okay maybe not. But something as exciting is just around the corner - "TRI Research Day 2019"! Have you ever dreamed of watching not 1, not 2 but over 30 researchers skillfully present their projects given ONE minute each? No? Well, your dream is about to be fulfilled. However, I must warn you, it's a very unusual sight to behold. This segment of the day is called "Minute Madness" for a reason.

Every year, trainees at Toronto Rehabilitation Institute (TRI) are given the opportunity to present their projects to the community, stakeholders and collaborators. Research Day 2019 takes place on the 30th of January. Visit researchday.ca for more info.

Back to the most favorite segment of the day- "Minute Madness". We invite you to come experience the awkward pauses, sweaty palms, cold-feet, loud laughs, innovation, improvisation, teamwork, confidence and most importantly the future of rehabilitation in healthcare .

And of course, yours truly - SleepdB lab, will not be left out. We bring to you a timeless presentation of knowledge, innovation and fun through the lens of your favorite, classic....okay I'll stop there. See you on the 30th of January, as we bring to you live updates in the world of sleep research. My kind advise: Don't sleep on it! Register now!
